

BOYS FIND BODY OF
JEFFERSON GREER

Located Friday Evening on Miller
Farm and Could be Identified
Only by Clothing.

NO EVIDENCE OF FOUL PLAY.

Coroner Dowden Holds Inquest And Finds Death Was Due to Heart Trouble.

The body of the late Jefferson Greer, the aged veteran of Rockford, who disappeared several weeks ago, was found about six o'clock yesterday evening on the Albert Miller farm east of the city. The body was found by three boys, Allen Lane, Ernest Lee and Nathan Stewart, while playing near that place. They at once reported their grewsome find and the body was brought to Voss' undertaking establishment where it remained pending the arrival of the coroner.

Greer had evidently been dead for some time as his body was in a frightful state of decomposition and was beyond recognition. The body could be identified only by personal effects found in the pockets of his clothing. The flesh from his hands and face was entirely gone and his clothing showed that he had been in the open weather for several weeks.

Coroner Dowden was immediately notified and came up this morning from Brownstown and held the inquest. A number of witnesses were examined and it is understood that his verdict will be that Greer's death was due to heart trouble. A search of his clothing proved that he had not been murdered as was first supposed, but that he had probably wandered to the place and as he was afflicted with heart trouble, had died before he could reach any of the neighbors. In his pocket was found a watch, $70 in cash, a small pearl, his pocket knife and a whiskey bottle, which contained a small amount of liquor.

Greer had evidently come to the place where he died upon the last day that he was seen in Seymour. There seems to be some doubt as to the exact day which he arrived in Seymour, but investigation shows that he probably came here on April 17th. Upon that day he was in Pauley's saloon and left his suit case. Mr. Pauley feels assured that Greer was there on the 17th for he was talking to a friend when Greer came in the door and spoke to him. The gentlemen who was talking to Mr. Pauley went from the saloon to a local hotel and registered, and the register shows that he was here on the 17th. However, the officials at the Soldiers' Home at Marion wrote to Greer's relatives here that he had left on his furlough on the 18th. Greer came to Seymour immediately after he left the Soldiers' Home, whether it was on the 17th or 18th and has probably been dead for over three weeks.

Henry Springer, who lives on a farm adjoining the Miller place, stated Friday evening that his son had noticed something lying under a tree where the body was found about a week ago, the boy's attention having been attracted to it by the barking of his dog. He intended to make an investigation but as he was busy plowing he forgot about what he had seen and did not go near the tree. Coroner Dowden, Chief of Police Abell and Mr. Springer made an examination of the premises this morning and came to the conclusion that Greer had wandered there, probably thinking he was on his way home in Rockford. When found Greer was lying on his left side with his hat over the side of his face.

Nothing about the body would indicate that he had met with foul play. The body was in such a condition that it was buried at once.

FATHER APPOINTED GUARDIAN

Result of Insanity Proceedings in Case of Rev. Roy Still.

The affidavit filed Tuesday afternoon against the Rev. Roy Still, of Crothersville, charging him with attempting to do violent injury upon Silas Benham, has been dismissed. This action was taken when Still's father prepared an affidavit alleging the insanity of his son, and Judge Shea has appointed the minister's father as his guardian. Still declares that he did not attempt to elope with the Benham girl, but placed her in the buggy and drove around Crothersville so that he could talk with her, as she has been forbidden to see him. He says that he did not draw a revolver in the girl's presence, nor did he draw the pistol on Silas Benham although he had put his hand in his pocket to do so when the weapon was taken away from him.

The Rev. Mr. Still and his father were in the city on their way home from Brownstown Friday evening. As Still has been declared insane and his father appointed his guardian he will not be prosecuted on the first charge.

A USEFUL CAREER

Many Tributes of Respect Paid By The Friends of the Late William
J. Durham.

PRESIDENT OF SCHOOL BOARD.

For Many Years Deceased Was An Employee of the O. & M. And
B. & O. S. W. Railroads.

Many tributes were paid today to the life of the late William J. Durham, who died about 3 o'clock Friday afternoon at the family home on north Broadway. His acts of kindness and benevolence were numerous and far reaching although done in a quiet and unassuming manner which was characteristic of his life. The funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Presbyterian church, conducted by the Rev. F. M. Huckleberry and Dr. D. L. Thomas. The funeral will be in charge of the Masonic order and the G. A. R.

W. J. Durham was past sixty-four years of age, having been born July 17, 1847, in Dearborn county. The early years of his life were spent in that county. In 1867 he was married to Miss Grace Chrisman and came to Jackson county five years later. Since that time he has resided here. The deceased is survived by a widow and four children, Clyde, Mrs. Lillie Stephens, and Katherine, of Indianapolis, and Herbert of Seymour.

During the closing years of the civil war, while Mr. Durham was yet a boy, he ran away from his home and enlisted in the Union army, becoming a member of the 134th Indiana Volunteer Infantry. A short time after he enlisted, however, he suffered from a severe sun stroke and remained in the hospital for four months. When he was able to leave the hospital the war was practically closed and he returned home.

During his residence in this city he exhibited a keen interest in politics and was always a loyal republican. He was also deeply interested in general public affairs and at the time of his death was president of the school board and a trustee of the city hospital.

He had the highest regard for a good school system, and it was during his term that the new high school building was erected.

When Mr. Durham was nineteen years of age he began work for the old O. & M. Railroad as a boiler maker and remained with that company and the B. & O. S. W. for many years. He was also roundhouse foreman at East St. Louis for a number of years.

During the month of November Mr. Durham was taken ill, and since December 19 has been confined to his bed. For several weeks he has been in a most critical condition. During the period of his illness he suffered intense pain, but never murmured a word of complaint.

Mr. Durham was an active member of the Masonic lodge and a leading member of Ellsworth Post of G. A. R.

SEYMOUR SCHOOL
WINS FIRST RANK

Contestants From Local High School
Prove Superior and Walk Away
With Pennant.

BIG CROWD ATTEND EVENTS.

Representatives From Junior Class
Total Twenty-eight Points of Thirty-two Made.

The Seymour high school carried off first honors at the Southeastern meet held at North Vernon Friday, returning home with more points to its credit than were given any other school in the association. The victory was easily won there being but two short intervals during the contest that the local school was not in the lead.

An exceptionally good showing was made in the athletic events where the thirty-two points were scored. North Vernon was Seymour's closest competitor for first place but the final count gave that school only twenty-four points.

While the victory is one for the entire school the junior class holds the honor of winning the largest number of points. This signifies that a strong team will be chosen again next year, and there is a strong probability that Seymour will be the winners at that time. Thomas, a junior, was the star for the local athletic team, winning seventeen of the thirty-two points. Of all the points won, the members of the junior class were successful in lining up twenty-eight of them, the sophomores won one and the seniors three. Schleter, also a member of the junior class, did some good work and carried off several of the prizes.

The boys who were awarded first place were presented with gold medals. A large pennant was given the local school as being the winner over the other schools in the association.

The representatives in the oratorical and reading contests were very good, and the students from Seymour believed that they would be given a place. However, the judges gave Franklin first place in oratory and Lawrenceburg first place in declamation.

A large number of high school students from the five schools represented in the association were present at the events.

Throughout the contests a most friendly spirit was exhibited among the different schools, and while each school supported its own teams enthusiastically the rivalry was in the best spirit.

The standing of the various schools in the events follows:

100 Yard Dash—Hewitt, Madison, first; R. Schneider, Lawrenceburg, second; Schleter, Seymour, third. Time, 11 2-5 seconds.

One Mile Run—Gooding, North Vernon, first; Craig, Seymour, second; Millendore, Franklin, third. Time 5 minutes 8 seconds.

Running High Jump—Hewitt, first; Schumaker, North Vernon, second; Means, Franklin, third. Height, 5 feet 1 inch.

50-Yard Dash—Schleter, first; Thomas, Seymour, second; Burkshire, Aurora, third. Time, 6 seconds.

Shot Put—Means, first; Rags-dall,

Franklin, second; Auerswald, North Vernon, third. Distance, 35 feet 3 inches.

440-Yard Dash—Bähr, Lawrenceburg, first; Vandiver, Franklin, second; Stier, Aurora, third. Time, 58 seconds.

Pole Vault—Thomas, Seymour; Randall, of Lawrenceburg, tied for first place; Matthews, Franklin, third. Height, 8 feet 11 1/4 inches.

220-Yard Dash—Schleter, first; Burkshire, second; Vandiver, third. Time, 26 seconds.

Standing Broad Jump—Davis, North Vernon, first; Beall, Aurora, second; Frederick, Lawrenceburg, third. Distance, 9 feet 3 1/2 inches.

220-Yard Hurdle—Thomas, Seymour, first; Parks, Aurora, second; Auerswald, third. Time, 30 seconds.

Running Broad Jump—Thomas, of Seymour, and Stier of Aurora, tied first and second; Lind, Seymour, third. Distance, 18 feet 1 inch.

Ball Throw—Jeffords, North Vernon, first; Hollstein, Franklin, second; Downey, Aurora, third. Distance, 93 yards 1 foot.

The one mile relay race was won by Aurora, Franklin second, Seymour third.

Indiana Humorist Suggested As Candidate for Governor.

Washington, May 10—That George Ade's name will figure in the contest for the Republican nomination for Governor of Indiana became almost a certainty today when Representative E. D. Crumpacker, in an authorized interview, proposed to the Republicans of Indiana the propriety of nominating Mr. Ade for standard bearer in the coming gubernatorial campaign.

This suggestion, coming from the only Indiana Republican in Congress, is certain to start an Ade governorship boom, and to cause a stir among Hoosier politicians who are hunting for a winning leader.

RICHESON'S LIFE WITH ALIENS

Minister May Escape Death If Specialists Hold That He is Insane.

"OBSERVED" FOR A

Famous Physician Watches Action
Condemned Preacher and Verdict is Awaited.

Boston, May 11—The fate of Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson, condemned to death for murder of Linnell, today, is virtually in the hands of noted alienists. At present times today they waited for at the Charles street jail, where Sheriff Quinn has practically been kept him until he goes to the electric chair, if that is determined out to him. Several say they would observe the scene several days.

If the majority of the alienists declare Richeson insane, Governor Foss will put the petition for leniency before his council, where he stands no vote except in case of a tie. Two of the physicians present, Richeson sane Governor Foss will refer to his council the petition for leniency and Richeson will die in chair.

Dr. Briggs, at Governor Foss's request, already has "observed" Richeson for almost a week, during the day and at various times at night when the prisoner was sleeping in his cell. Dr. Briggs's report was a "sane" Foss's hands today.

Heart to Heart Talks.

MONEY, YOUNG MAN.

Money is flat in shape; there is no roll to it," says the spendthrift. "Money is flat in shape; there is no roll to it," says the miser. Which is it? Both! Money was made to be spent—wisely. Money was made to be saved—wisely. There is a halfway stopping place between the miser and the spendthrift. Do you "blow" your money? Is your life no bigger than a week's wages? Do you despise a "tightwad"? There is a reasonable compromise between stinginess and prodigality—the way of frugality. Economy is a real virtue. Thrift is a real virtue. If you should try to save 25 percent of your earnings? It will not be done. On every side there will be tugs at your purse strings. But you are strong enough to make money. You can be strong enough to save it. Saving is a wise policy because it produces ready cash. And ready money talks! It spells opportunity. The time may come when a little ready cash will set you up in business. The margin between success and failure often is the margin of ready capital. John Wanamaker's first wages amounted to the sum of $1.20 per week. He saved part of it! Old John D. Rockefeller shows his book where he put down his first earnings. Always there was the margin of good savings. E. H. Harriman, son of a poor teacher, always spent less than he earned. James A. Garfield taught school at 12 per week and saved the money to send him through college. His early days James J. Hill kept a little ready money in bank to make a first payment on something he could buy at a bargain. "I'm tired of reading examples. Times have changed," he said. "Times have changed, but the habit of getting on in the world has not changed. While stinginess and parsimony may be next door to meanness and greed may lead to graft, yet—stinginess is one thing; prudence is another. Save some money. The habit will make a man of you. Self reliance, self control—these spell manhood. Save some money. Get the habit. You will need the habit—and the money."

CONFLICT OF LANGUAGE.

Austria-Hungary steams with jealousies and hatreds, with prejudices of race and conflicts of language. It is admitted that were the differences in language overcome the quarrels would cease. Germany has realized that she can never hope to subdue the Polish national movement until the Polish language is destroyed, and so she is forcing German down the throats of the Poles without mercy. The languages of China are said to be as many as a hundred in number, says the Toledo Blade. Each province, each district, sometimes cities and villages, have their own peculiar dialects. The Manchus have difficulty in understanding the Chinaman of South China. During the heat of the rebellion the Chinese tested the Manchus suspects by making them count. There was one number at which the Manchus always betrayed himself. China has been a mere heap of semi-independent states and autonomous governments. But now she has hopes of graduating into a world force, a true nation. In the light of the fact that the Chinese cannot get upon a common plane of language that hope seems impossible of fulfillment.

The people of Bowdoinham, Me.—or some of them—are determined to erect a monument of foresight and forehandedness. They are collecting money for a fund to be deposited in the savings bank, the interest to be compounded semi-annually, for the celebration of the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the incorporation, which will ripen in the year 2012. Why the fund would not come handy to celebrate the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary in 1912 is not specified. But the present generation evidently rejects the carpe diem maxim, and lays up the fund for its great-grandchildren to celebrate withal a century hence. It ought to be a tidy sum by that time, if the savings bank don't break, or the gold basis depreciate to nothing, or the town itself die out, in the interval.

One of the great French aeroplane builders has constructed a veritable aerial taxicab. The machine has a body which looks like that of any taxicab. The passengers enter by a side door and view the landscape below through mica windows. Pneumatic cushions protect the passengers in rough landings. The pilot sits in front of the machine, like a chauffeur. There is even a speaking tube to facilitate communication between the passengers within the taxicab and the chauffeur. A 100-horsepower engine is mounted on top of a cab, and with it the fuel tanks. The spread of wing is 43 feet from tip to tip, and the over-all length is 45 feet. Ready for flight, without passengers, the aeroplane weighs 1,540 pounds.

SATURDAY NIGHT SERMONS

BY REV. SAMUEL W. PURVIS, D.D.

IS THERE A HEAVEN?

Text, "Great is your reward in heaven."—Matt. v. 12.

Throw away Bibles and heaven is still human belief. It is instinctive. The ills and cares of life are so many that if there is no heaven there is no hope. The ancients peered into the darkness like sailors looking toward the ocean before Columbus' time. The Hottentot says heaven will be a place of cool streams and no cacti. Desert dwellers think of it as an oasis with clear springs and palm trees. The people of the frozen north think of it as a land of warm sunshine. But the geographer has circled the globe, and neither tropic of Cancer, tropic of Capricorn nor arctic circle contains the long for elysium. Turn to the Christian's Bible—heaven is both here and there a place and a condition. Christ says both: "The kingdom of heaven lieth within you." "I go to prepare a place." Heaven on the way to heaven! Here joy and peace and happiness; there joy, peace and happiness, only there removal of limitations of enjoyment. I would like to locate it, place my finger on the heavenly map, for I expect to live there some day. But the good book only puts up a sign board and points the way.

Jerusalem the Golden.

San Francisco is the Golden Gate City. Buffalo Queen City of the Lakes. Baltimore Monumental City. Washington City of Magnificent Distances. Boston the Hub. Philadelphia City of Brotherly Love. New York the metropolis. Heaven is Jerusalem the Golden—a city not built with hands nor gray with years, whose inhabitants never grow old, no census has numbered there no nodding plume of hearse creeps with its dead to the tomb; a city without graves, pain or sin, angels for guards, saints for citizens. I've heard shriek of mangled form under wheels of car, groan of agony on hospital bed, sob of mother over firstborn dead. Heaven shall be harp, trumpet, grand march, shouts and hallelu jabs, the doxology of many nations ringing through streets of eternity. Earth may be the filth and squalor of Constantinople; heaven like Redlands aware with palms, heavy with fragrance of orange groves or flowers from Smiley heights. San Bernardino in background, afar green mossy lappling sands of golden Pacific. "And I John, saw the holy city." Holy in what? In its people. For it is not only what heaven will be, but what we will be. One night last summer a bat flew into my church. The lights, the music, the singing, had no attraction for him. He was out of place. So would be a sinner in heaven.

"Where the Treasure Is"

Man is the provident animal; so is the squirrel. The little rodent, however, stores but for one winter. Man lays up for eternity, not where "moth and rust doth corrupt and where thieves break through and steal," but in heaven. "Where the treasure is there the heart will be also." Are you a squirrel man or a God man? "Not fit for heaven?" True, we're not. Nor is that pile of filthy rags in the scavenger's cart quite fit to be creamy sheets of note paper. What men can do with refuse in ragman's cart God can do—and more—with soiled human lives after the grossness of earth has been removed. Don't know the way? "I am the way," says Christ. John C. Fremont blazed a way across a continent. I follow now in the Overland. Recognize them? Indeed we shall. "In my Father's house," says Christ. Queer house where you wouldn't recognize your own folks. It's "a feast." Strange feast where no one would know his neighbor. It's a "wedding supper." That means homecomings, congratulations, shouts of merriment. If you are a stranger at such it isn't for long.

Whence? Where? Whither?

"Whence?" Doesn't matter. In a neighbor's house they're sewing and quilting and curiously embroidering. The softest things are being laid aside to greet a little pilgrim of love when it comes from distant regions we know not whence. "Where?" We're here. No emperor's child's cradle prepared with such magnificence as this world for man. Curiously carved and decorated, covered with flowers, curtained with stars, vials of fragrance, glories of colors, symphonies of sound, feasting festivity and smiles. Between the mountain peaks of eternity we are in the valley of Now, in the Where in which the Almighty hath placed us. "Whither?" I know not any more than the grub in the mud of the mill pond knows the whither of his beautiful dragon fly ancestor or the lowly caterpillar can follow the flight of his mother, the magnificent butterfly. Something draws me. I feel the call of infinity. I stood on roof of great exposition building on opening day. Beneath in the wide plaza were 5,000 wicker baskets. At 12 o'clock noon there was a trumpet call from the battlement of the building. Five thousand doors were opened. Five thousand pigeons emerged. Upward they mounted with flutter of ten thousand wings. Round and round they circled; then the home call rang in each bird's breast, and each started for an invisible dove-cot perhaps hundreds of miles away. Oh, my God, I feel the call of the invisible! My soul is homesick to go back whence I first came.

FACE BETRAYS CALLING

MOTOR RACE DRIVERS CAN BE PICKED ALMOST INVARIABLY.

Spectators Rarely See Faces During Race But Speedway Offers Best Chance in This Respect During 500-Mile Race.

Every form of contest is disappointing in some detail to the spectators. Motor car racing, thrilling though it may be, is no exception. Hundreds of spectators at various automobile races have made the remark, "I wish I could see the driver's face," but disappointment greets them every time for the reason that goggles and a liberal quantity of greasy dirt cover the flying pilot's face so completely that his features are not discernible.

Perhaps the most satisfactory contest in this regard is the annual 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. Here the drivers race so close to the spectators that the expression of their faces may be caught momentarily, and the absence of dust which is found in the road race, makes this condition more possible.

No matter what the contour of a race driver's face may be, if he is a seasoned veteran of the sport his face assumes a similarity of lines and expression that stamp his trade the same as the Bertillon system betrays its victims, the tense facial muscles and squinted eyes mark him every time.

Probably one of the best examples of these expressions is found in the picture of Howard Wilcox, one of the stars of the National Racing team. Wilcox is entered in the next 500-mile International Sweepstakes at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway next Memorial Day. He has grown up in the speed atmosphere and has been one of the most successful drivers during the past two or three years.

Wilcox wears the typical "speed face." When the goggles are lifted to show the natural position of the eyes while driving at high speed they are almost closed. The face has a fierce, almost brutal expression and the set expression of the eyes shows clearly how intent a driver is upon his task. At terrific speed he must think quickly and act with accurate haste despite thrills, hazards and hardships.

Despite the fact that the eyes are almost closed when a car is traveling at high speed, the drivers see clearly and look between the narrow slits with a keenness that seldom falters. The other National drivers entered in the 500-mile race are Don Herr and Charley Merz. Wilcox is the star of the aggregation, being the holder of the world's stock mile records of 40.32 seconds.

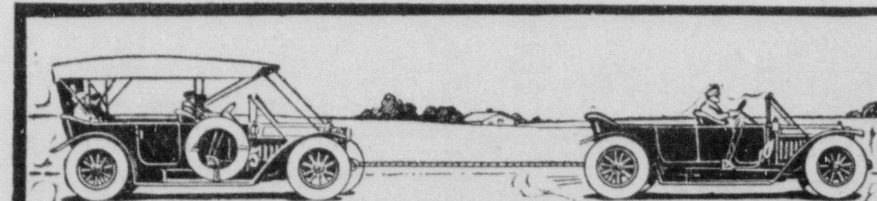

Fifteen entries have been made to the next 500-mile race to date.

MERCEDES ENTERS LONG RUN

Ralph DePalma will be seen in action on the Indianapolis Motor Speedway course next Memorial Day when the second annual 500-mile International Sweepstakes Race will be run, the dirt track champion having entered a Mercedes car. The car DePalma will drive is a big ninety-horsepower motor, the same which carried him to second place in the Vanderbilt Cup race and third in the Grand Prix race at Savannah during last Thanksgiving week. The motor has a 5.1-inch bore and 7.1-inch piston stroke, making a piston displacement of 583 cubic inches, close to the limit allowed for eligibility to the Indianapolis speed classic.

The Mercedes is a privately owned racer, being the property of E. J. Schroeder, of New York, the man who has the largest interest in the Dixie motor boats, which have the international aquatic speed records to date.

Do You Want Your Money's Worth?

Flanders "20" Touring Car, $800

The next time an automobile salesman tries to sell you a car at a discount, tell him that the old "something for nothing" story can't fool you.

The best automobiles in the world are sold for their list price, not a penny less. They are worth it. But the lame ducks, the second rates, the nondescript and assembled automobiles are in the public market looking for the highest bidder. Look out they don't get you. If gold-brick cars are not worth their list price, how much are they worth? Nobody knows. Cut price deals are frauds.

But if you want a car of one price to all and worth every cent of it, get either a Studebaker E-M-F "30," $1100, or Flanders "20," $800. You can trust them. You get all that you pay for, and that is more than you get with any other car at near their price. Studebaker guarantees them—that's the big reason. No matter what price temptation falls in your way, Studebaker E-M-F "30" and Flanders "20" cars are far bigger bargains, because in years of good service and satisfaction they pay big returns.

We can prove it—Send for our new catalogue

MORE VIOLENCE AT THE MINES

Further Evidences of Lawlessness on the Part of Idle Miners Are Noted in the Anthracite Fields, Roving Mobs Driving Away the Men Who Would Work—Various Predictions Regarding Next Week's Convention.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., May 11.—Marching under the stars and stripes and heavily armed with clubs and stones, 1,500 men, women and children surrounded the colliery of Joseph Stark, an independent operator at Hudson, and threatened violence to the men at work. Stark defied the mob to show its hand and alone and single-handed drove them from the place. Stark has a force of men hauling coal which he had sold to nearby markets. The mob gathered supposedly to prevent this sale. Stark mounted a wagon and addressed the crowd. He said: "I am here to tell you that I will do as I please about this colliery. I intend to haul what coal I want to and to sell wherever I please." He further said he would call upon the state police for protection and advised the crowd to disperse. The crowd then desisted and marched to the Delaware colliery of the D. & H. company. Here engineers, pumpmen and firemen were sent back to their homes. Then they proceeded to the Keystone colliery in the same town, where a breaker is being rebuilt. All the men employed on this job fled as the mob entered upon the company's land. After leaving guards to see that no further efforts were made to start work, the rioters marched to the town and there paraded the streets, singing and cheering.

When the 500 delegates convene here next week at the miners' convention it is thought that the majority will favor the rejection of the tentative agreement. The men will demand an increase of 10 per cent, with the sliding scale and a two-year agreement instead of four, though the influence of the conservative element is becoming manifest in many quarters and predictions are made that the delegates will vote to adopt the form of agreement signed by their leaders and the operators' representative on the sub-committee. At a meeting held in Shenandoah Father Norton requested the privilege of addressing the men. He importuned them to be law abiding and not to interfere with men who were employed as pumpmen and firemen.

Many of the locals which during the early part of the week instructed their delegates to vote for an increase of 10 per cent and the sliding scale, are holding meetings and re-instructing them to uphold President White and the district presidents by voting to ratify the sub-committee agreement.

WILL LEVEES HOLD?

This Is the Question Just Now Agitating New Orleans.

New Orleans, May 11.—High winds have put the New Orleans river gauge at the head of Canal street to twenty-two feet, 1.6 feet higher than the record of any previous year, half a foot above the maximum stage predicted by the government. Water is slopping over the sandbags all along the levees guarding the older part of the city. In the city itself many stores have been inundated as a result of the terrific rain, car service is paralyzed, and many streets are impassable. It is a matter of grave doubt whether all the levees will hold. If they remain standing today it is admitted they probably will have been put to the severest test possible.

At several endangered points it is admitted that the fight is practically hopeless. At Baton Rouge the high winds washed a considerable amount of water over the top of the dyke, but men battled heroically with the elements and word was sent to New Orleans that the dam around the capital still holds.

GERMANS WEARY OF CODE DUELLO

Reichstag May Put a Stop to Ancient Practice.

KAISER UPHOLDS THE FIGHTS

His Minister of War in Open Discussion Presents the Arguments of His Imperial Master in Favor of Personal Battles Between Officers Who, He Argues, Ought to Have Privilege of Cutting and Slashing Each Other.

Berlin, May 11.—Because the military estimates are under discussion and the subject of duelling in the army just now is a warm one, the discussion before the budget committee of the reichstag was continued in regard to the question of duelling.

During the debate Herr Von Heeringen, the Prussian minister of war, who has been defending the kaiser in his stand that army officers should either accept a challenge of honor or get out of the service, said efforts had been made to minimize the effect of duelling in the army by his majesty, who interfered in 722 cases where he was upheld by the courts. The kaiser's contention in these cases was that there had been no justification for the challenge. The kaiser had been compelled to decide many subtle points in these affairs. For instance, his majesty's opinion was solicited in the case of an officer who had killed a brother officer's wife. The court of honor had decided that there must be a duel. The kaiser expressed astonishment at the decision of the court. He decided that the quarrel was one of those affairs which should be reconciled, and stopped the duel.

In another case, said the war minister, an officer who had been accused of sharp practice at cards had been acquitted by the court, but he felt that he ought to fight four duels in order to maintain his honor. The kaiser ruled that the decision of the court was sufficient vindication and forbade the duels.

Herr Von Heeringen in his argument again maintained that duelling was inevitable in the army. A similar practice existed in other armies, he said. It was an evil, but it was ineradicable. It was impossible to dismiss officers for duelling. It would put them at a disadvantage with civilian officials.

The war minister contended that the resolution under discussion involved an encroachment upon the emperor's prerogative.

FIERCE FIGHTING

Mexican Combatants at Last Getting Within Close Range.

Escalon, Mexico, May 11.—Fighting between the federals and rebels on Rancho Tlahualilo, in the vicinity of Torreon, was resumed, the rebels closing in on the federals with a ferocity born of the desperation of men in a desert, who must quickly whip the enemy, retreat or starve. General Salazar, with 3,000 men, defeated at Carmen, between Cuatro Ciénegas and Monclova, in his efforts to reach the Mexican International railroad and flank the federals at Torreon, has been called back by Orozco to reinforce the rebel main army now at Tlahualilo, Bermejillo and Mapi, and if possible drive the federals back into Torreon for the last stand.

The federals have the advantage in that they are fighting on chosen ground and have ample supplies.

An Important Battle.

El Paso, Tex., May 11.—What seems to be a most important battle is reported in progress at Tohualillo, in the state of Chihuahua, the forces numbering altogether about 4,000 men. Two carloads of wounded from the battlefield near Monclova have passed through Saltillo, but no definite news of the engagement has been received.

BRANDT'S LIBERTY IS CUT SHORT BY COURT

Appellate Branch Says He Must Go Back to Prison.

New York, May 11.—Justice Gerard's decision sustaining the writ of habeas corpus obtained on behalf of Folke E. Brandt, the former valet of Mortimer L. Schiff, has been reversed by the appellate division. Brandt was sentenced by Judge Rosalsky in the court of general sessions to thirty years in state prison and already has served five years of the term in Clinton prison at Dannemora. Brandt was taken into custody after the decision was announced and was held in $5,000 bail. In default of this bail he was sent to the Tombs. Unless execution of the order accompanying the decision of the appellate division is stayed Brandt will start back for Dannemora on Monday.

Mirabeau L. Towns, lawyer for Brandt, said that he will take the matter before the court of appeals. "I will file my appeal on Monday," he said, "and the filing of it will hold Brandt here."

NEW LAW DIDN'T PROVE POPULAR

Only About Half of Indiana Voters Registered.

BECAUSE WEATHER WAS FINE

Farmers Would Not Leave Their Fields to Go to the Places of Registration, and Besides That Many Stayed Away as a Means of Showing Their Disapproval of the New Law—Little Effort Made to Get Voters Out.

Indianapolis, May 11.—Registration of voters in Indiana on the first day did not exceed 55 per cent of the total vote cast at the election in 1910, according to official and estimated returns received from the counties. Exact figures are difficult to obtain, because no means was provided in most of the counties for collecting the number of registrations in the various precincts.

Dispatches say the registration was light in the farming communities because the weather was fine and the farmers, whose spring work is belated, preferred to plow and plant their corn than to go to the registration booths. In the cities the registrations ranged from 40 to 75 per cent of the normal vote, while in the rural districts the registration in some counties was only 25 to 35 per cent of the vote of 1910. Complaint comes from some of the agricultural counties of the expense of carrying out the new law, and farmers in a few places showed their dissatisfaction by refusing to go to the registration places.

Several cities report that difficulty in registering was encountered by the sons of foreign-born fathers. Many of these men knew their fathers were naturalized, but could not tell either when or where. They themselves have been voting for years, but were unable to give the required information about their fathers. No apparent effort was made by the party leaders in a large number of counties to induce voters to register.

VOTED IT DOWN

Woman Will Not Be Named For Vice President by Socialists.

Indianapolis, May 11.—A proposition for the women to place in nomination a woman for vice president of the United States on the Socialist ticket in the national convention beginning here tomorrow, was voted down by the national committee of the Socialist party. The vote was against the proposal for a woman's name to be placed on the ticket, because the women concluded that if they could succeed it would be only a sentimental matter, as a woman could not qualify as vice president if elected. The women's meeting was held at the English hotel.

Congressman Victor L. Berger of Milwaukee presided at the session of the executive committee. Other members of the committee present were William D. Haywood, John Harriman, Kate Richards O'Hare and John Spargo. Mr. Haywood, who became known in connection with the Haywood-Moyer-Pettibone troubles in the west, and is now one of the leaders of the industrial Workers of the World, composed of the "direct action" Socialists, said after the morning conference that the committee had considered the San Diego outrages against Socialists and not against the Industrial Workers of the World.

A telegram was read showing that enemies of Socialism in San Diego had raided the Socialist headquarters, had prevented the Socialists from speaking, and had even killed and hung members of the Socialist party.

Another Traction Collision.

Kokomo, Ind., May 11.—Howard Beattie, aged eighteen, a student of the Kokomo high school, was killed and nearly all the passengers of the two cars bruised or badly shaken up when two cars on the Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction line collided a mile and a half west of this city last evening. Both motormen jumped in time to escape injury. A misunderstanding of orders is said to have been the cause of the collision.

Motorman Fatally Injured.

South Bend, Ind., May 11.—Samuel Culp, motorman of a city streetcar, begged bystanders to take an ax and chop off his legs after he had been hit by his own car and fatally injured. The man was pinioned under the trucks of the car and lay half an hour in agony before he was released. He had jumped off the car to turn a switch. The brakes did not work and the car struck him.

Third Attempt Fatal.

Danville, Ind., May 11.—Robert Landon, aged twenty-nine, son of Azor Landon, committed suicide by shooting himself in the right temple with a revolver. It was shown at the inquest that he had made three attempts to kill himself, the third being successful. It is thought a love affair was the cause.

Ate Beans With a Knife.

MOTHERS' DAY.

Sunday, May 12th, has been set aside as Mothers' Day and it is entirely fitting that one day in the year be observed for Mother. The home is recognized as an important factor in the up-building of a nation and the Mother is the central influence of the home. The valuable lessons of truth and justice taught around the family fireside are never forgotten, and the advice of Mother has much to do with the shaping of our later lives when the family circle is broken.

The deeds of heroes are extolled and praised but frequently the heroine of the home is forgotten in the busy rush of business life. The average person is prone to forget the sacrifices of Mother and it is, indeed, well that a special day be designated each year when the name of Mother will come before all other thoughts. We are inclined to overlook the many acts of Mother, which have been performed for our pleasure or welfare, for they are so frequent we come to regard them as part of her duty. We forget that many acts performed by her mean a sacrifice, yet she is willing to serve her family in the best way she can, practically eliminating the thought of herself.

Tomorrow, throughout the nation the name of Mother will be commemorated and doubtless many will be impressed again of the great influence which their Mothers have had upon their lives. Such a day as this is a sacred one and every effort should be made to make it as pleasant as possible for the Mothers who still occupy their queenly position in the home.

The funds of Lawrence County now on deposit exceed all previous deposits. Two days ago there was $300,000 but after several bills were paid there remains $296,000. The highest amount previous to this was $240,000.—Bedford Mail.

In view of the fact that the state house democrats are in dire financial troubles maybe the Lawrence County treasurer could come to his relief and tell how the trick was turned.

Strange Action of a Baseball.

Following is an interesting story told by Hugh S. Fullerton in the May American Magazine, in an article describing freak plays that have won big baseball games:

"On the old Washington grounds, when Washington was in the National League, the players left the field by passing under the stands, and the entrance to the passage was closed by a cellar door arrangement which sloped down to the ground. The doors, of course, were kept closed during games, but at the top, cut in the planks of the stand, was a small square hole to permit the players to reach through and unlatch the doors when they desired to leave the field. During one game I saw a ball, which had been thrown wild to the plate in an effort to cut off the tying run, roll up the doors and disappear through that hole. The batter circled the bases and scored the winning run. The Chicago club, under Anson, was beaten and protested the game on the ground that the opening existed in violation of the rules. In the investigation of the complaint an attempt was made to force a ball through the hole and although it was pounded with a bat the ball refused to pass through the hole until the cover gave way. After that almost every team that came on the grounds tried to put balls through the hole and failed. How that thrown ball managed to twist its way through the aperture never has been explained satisfactorily."

STATE ACCOUNTING BOARD

Holds That Township Trustees Should Not Withhold Part of Salary.

In answer to a number of inquiries, the State board of accounts has held that it is not necessary for a township trustee to withhold every month one-fourth of the salary of teachers in his school pending the final statistical report of the teacher. A law enacted in 1865, which is still in force, provides that trustees shall withhold one-fourth of the teacher's total wages until such report is made. In some instances the trustee held up one-fourth the wages every month until final settlement. Teachers opposed to this method appealed to the State board, and it was held that all that was necessary was for the trustees to hold one-fourth the total salary until the report was made. This could be done, the board held, by holding up the last two months' wages where the teacher was to be paid for eight months of work, or a month and a half of wages where the teacher was to be paid for six months work. The board also found many trustees did not observe the law and instructed them it must be obeyed.

FACTORY GIRL GIVES UP

Too Sick to Work—Doctor Advised Operation. Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—“I run a sewing machine in a large factory and got all run down. I had to give up work for I could not stand the pains in my back. The doctor said I needed an operation for female trouble but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me more than the doctors did. I hope that every one who is suffering will get the Compound. My pains, nervousness and backache are gone and I have gained five pounds. I owe my thanks to your medicine for it is the working girls friend, and all women who suffer should write to you for special advice.”—Miss TILLIE PLENZIG, 3 Jay St., Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

When a remedy has lived for over thirty years, steadily growing in popularity and influence, and thousands upon thousands of women declare they owe their very lives to it, is it not reasonable to believe that it is an article of great merit?

We challenge anyone to show any other one remedy for a special class of disease which has attained such an enormous demand and maintained it for so many years as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

A HARMLESS WAY TO DARKEN THE HAIR

A Little Sage and Sulphur Makes Gray Hair Vanish—A Remedy for All Hair Troubles

Who does not know the value of sage and sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft, glossy and in good condition? As a matter of fact, sulphur is a natural element of hair, and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Unquestionably, there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature grayness, than sage and sulphur, if properly prepared. The Wyeth Chemical Company of New York put up an ideal remedy of this kind, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, and authorize druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

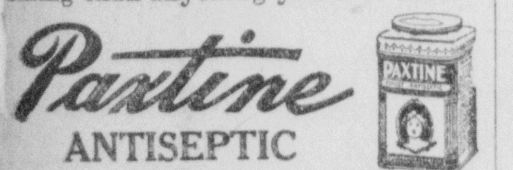

If you have dandruff, or if your hair is thin or turning gray, get a bottle of this remedy from your druggist to-day, and see what it will do for you. This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

For Women Who Care

Of course you use an antiseptic in your family and in the care of your own person, and you want the best.

Instead of what you have been using such as liquid or tablet antiseptics or peroxide, won't you please try Paxtine, a concentrated antiseptic powder to be dissolved in water as needed.

Paxtine is more economical, more cleansing, more germicidal and more eating than anything you ever used.

In the toilet—to cleanse and whiten the teeth, remove tartar and prevent decay. To disinfect the mouth, destroy disease germs, and purify the breath. To keep artificial teeth and bridgework clean and odorless. To remove nicotine from the teeth and purify the breath after smoking. To eradicate perspiration odors by sponge bathing.

As a medicinal agent for local treatment of feminine ills where pelvic catarrh, inflammation and ulceration exist, nothing equals hot douches of Paxtine. For ten years the Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co. has been regularly advising their patients to use it because of its extraordinary cleansing, healing and germicidal power. For this purpose alone Paxtine is worth its weight in gold. Also for nasal catarrh, sore throat, inflamed eyes, cuts and wounds. All druggists, 25 and 50 cents a box. Trial box and testimony of 31 women free on request. THE PAXTON TOILET CO., BOSTON, MASS.

IRELAND HAS REASON TO BE WELL PLEASED

Redmond's Conclusion Regarding Home Rule Bill.

London, May 10.—Amid vociferous cheering by the coalition supporters of the government, the home rule bill passed its second reading in the house of commons last night.

This happened after a motion by one of the Unionist leaders to reject the bill had been defeated by a vote of 372 to 271. The bill was then referred to the committee of the whole and numerous amendments were handed in. The closing hours of the debate on the second reading of the bill, to which seven days had been devoted, were tense with excitement, but there were none of the acrimonious scenes which attended this stage of former home rule bills. It was a straight debate within parliamentary limits, notwithstanding the keen antagonism to the measure by the rival parties and frequent hard hitting. The final speeches of Premier Asquith and Bonar Law, the Unionist leader, were followed with close interest and repeated cheers from their supporters.

John Redmond, the Irish Nationalist leader, said he thought Ireland had reason to be well satisfied with the course of the debate on the main proposal that Ireland should have the right to manage her own affairs without any interference from imperial supremacy. He accepted the bill as a final settlement for Ireland. Bonar Law, who followed Redmond, strongly criticized the financial provision of the bill. The government, he said, was deliberately making arrangements whereby discontent must be created. There would, he declared, be constant friction between the Irish and English chancellors of the exchequer. It was cruel and unjustifiable tyranny to force the men of Ulster out of a constitution which they liked into one which they abhorred. Premier Asquith, in winding up the debate, said in referring to the kick of the Ulster men that the British people would not be frightened out of doing what they believed to be just by intimidatory language. But, said the premier, nobody claimed that his bill could not be modified hereafter.

MOBS KEEP MEN FROM RETURNING TO MINES

Many Acts of Violence In Anthracite Fields.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., May 10.—A mob of 600 men, women and boys took possession of the road leading to the works of a Luzerne colliery and drove men on their way to work back to their homes. At a Plymouth colliery a mob of the same number gathered at the entrance to the works and turned back the men who have been carrying on the repair work of the engineers, firemen and pumpmen who have the union's consent to work. At a Hudson colliery a crowd of 600 collected and drove back men who started for their regular places of employment. In no instance did the state police arrive. At a Leggetts Creek colliery a crowd of 500 men and boys armed with clubs and stones took their position on the road leading to the colliery. They held up the men who appeared for work and informed them that they would not be permitted to start their labor. One miner raised an argument over the order and the mob led him to the bank of the creek and threw him in, pelting him with clubs and stones. After all workmen had been sent home the crowd broke up and peace prevailed.

In the districts in the lower end the miners were held in restraint by the state police. At Minersville the men are in a very angry mood over the recent shooting and threaten to even up matters with the "black Cossacks," as the state troopers are called.

YOUNG MRS. TILLMAN IS SEEKING DIVORCE

Prefers Sensational Charges Against Husband.

Columbia, S. C., May 10.—In the suit for divorce filed by Mrs. Benjamin R. Tillman, jr., sensational charges against her husband are made. Young Tillman is the son of United States Senator Tillman, and has a position at Washington. Mrs. Tillman has established residence in Cincinnati and has brought suit there because the South Carolina constitution does not permit divorce.

Mrs. Tillman accuses her husband of chronic drunkenness and says that he shamefully abused her. She also charges that he squandered much of her fortune. She left her husband about two years ago. Soon after leaving him young Mrs. Tillman brought suit to recover her two children, which had been taken from her by her husband and given to Senator and Mrs. Tillman. Young Tillman went so far

WHEN IT'S OF WHAT AND WHERE CONSULT OUR CLASSIFIED

You probably have something you don't need, and need something you don't have.

And if that is true a "For Sale" or an "Exchange ad in the Classified columns will probably serve you.

The cost of such an ad, even if repeated several times, is trivial; and it may enable you to really Practice that Thrift which you have always been told is so fine a thing.

Farm Land, City Property, Stocks and Bonds, Machinery, Live Stock, Furniture, in fact nearly everything is advertised for sale, for rent, or exchange in the Classified Columns of the Republican. At least seventy-five per cent of these advertisements bring results.

If you find it, look for the loser's ad, if it's not there, publish the finder's ad. If the loser still fails to disclose himself, your title to the found article begins to look valid.

Finding a tenant for vacant property is a Business Matter. Using the Classified advertising column is a Business Method.

A useful, but still unused article, (whether machinery, furniture, apparel, office fixtures or appliances), is an unnecessary burden to you. Utilize a "For Sale" ad, and realize always-needed cash for an unneeded chattel.

A Few of the Results of Using Classified Ads.

LOST—$10.00 between Seymour Manufacturing Co. and Carter's Book Store. Return here.

At a cost of but 13 cents this money was returned to the owner.

FOR SALE—A seven-room house in good condition. Inquire here.

Several prospective buyers answered this advertisement.

WANTED—Boy 16 years old to learn harness trade. Hoosier Harness Company.

This position was filled. The advertisement was run but one time.

LOST—Velvet hand bag, small pocket book and change, near Methodist church Saturday night. Reward.

This velvet hand bag and pocket book was returned to the owner soon after the advertisement appeared in the classified column.

LOST—Gold watch, medium size, Elgin works, leather fob with aluminum charm. Reward. Return here.

When as valuable an article as a gold watch is found, it shows considerable honesty for the person to return it, though this was the result of the above advertisement. The finder received a reward, the owner his watch.

FOR RENT—Modern flat. Phone 587. This modern flat was rented to a permanent tenant.

Fresh Jersey cow, second calf (heifer), both full blood. M. F. Bottorff.

This live stock was sold with an expense to the owner of but 22 cents for a classified ad.

FOR RENT—A lot, will make good garden spot. See D. DeMatteo, Phone 465.

This classified ad rented the lot for Mr. DeMatteo.

WANTED—To repair all the Auto Casings and Tubes in Jackson and adjoining counties. R. W. Irwin, 518 West Second St., Phone 772.

Mr. Irwin is two or three weeks behind with his work as the result of using this ad.

LOST—Heavy gold chain and watch fob set with large deep red stone, Sunday afternoon. Reward. Return here.

Mr. P. E. Wills, whose old home is in Oxford Co., Maine, the owner of the above advertised Watch Fob, took considerable interest in recovering his property. The reason Mr. Wills values the fob so highly is because he dug the most of the gold with which it was made.

One insertion of this advertisement in the Classified columns returned the property to Mr. Wills.

WANTED—Girl to stay at Singer Office.

A classified ad costing a few cents filled this position.

LOST—Locket and chain. Return to 215 South Chestnut street.

This locket and chain was found.

FOUND—First Baptist Sunday School badge with initial on back. Inquire here.

This Sunday School Badge was returned to Holland Eudaly, the owner, as the result of two days' advertising.

WANTED—Rooms for light house-keeping. Address P. O. Box 908.

Very desirable rooms were received by this advertiser.

WANTED—Boy to feed press. Call at Graessle-Mercer Co.

A good, responsible boy was secured by the Graessle-Mercer Company for the above position.

Charges for using the Classified Column are as follows: In the Daily—One cent per word for the first insertion. One-half cent per word for each additional insertion. Three cents per word for six insertions and ten cents per word per month. In the Weekly, One cent per word for each insertion.

CHAPTER V.

Marooned on an Iceberg.

WITH lucid intervals, during which he replenished or rebuilt the fire, cooked the bear meat and fed and dressed the wounds of the child, this delirium lasted three days. His suffering was intense. His arm, the seat of throbbing pain, had swollen to twice the natural size, while his side prevented his taking a full breath voluntarily. He had paid no attention to his own hurts, and it was either the vigor of a constitution that years of dissipation had not impaired or some anti-febrile property of the bear meat or the absence of the exciting whisky that won the battle. He rekindled the fire with his last match on the evening of the third day and looked around the darkening horizon, sane, but feeble in body and mind.

If a sail had appeared in the interim he had not seen it, nor was there one in sight now. Too weak to climb the slope, he returned to the boat, where the child, exhausted from fruitless crying, was now sleeping. His unskillful and rather heroic manner of wrapping it up to protect it from cold had no doubt contributed largely to the closing of its wounds by forcibly keeping it still, though it must have added largely to its present sufferings. He looked for a moment on the wan, tear stained little face, with its fringe of tangled curls peeping above the wrappings of canvas, and, stooping painfully down, kissed it softly, but the kiss awakened it, and it cried for its mother. He could not soothe it, nor could he try, and with a formless, wordless curse against destiny welling up from his heart he left it and sat down on the wreckage at some distance away.

"We'll very likely get well," he mused gloomily, "unless I let the fire go out. What then? We can't last longer than the berg and not much longer than the bear. We must be out of the tracks. We were about 900 miles out when we struck, and the current sticks to the fog belt here—about west-south-west—but that's the surface water. These deep fellows have currents of their own. There's no fog. We must be to the southward of the belt—between the lanes. They'll run their boats in the other lane after this. I think—the money grabbing wretches. Curse them if they've drowned her. Curse them, with their water tight compartments and their logging of the lookouts. Twenty-four boats for 3,000 people, lashed down with tarred gripe lashings, thirty men to clear them away and not an ax on the boat deck or a sheath knife on a man. Could she have got away? If they got that boat down they might have taken her in from the steps, and the mate knew I had her child. He would tell her. Her name must be Myra too. It was her voice I heard in that dream. That was hashish. What did they drug me for? But the whisky was all right. It's all done with now unless I get ashore, but will I?"

The moon rose above the jagged structure to the left, flooding the icy beach with ashen gray light, sparkling in a thousand points from the cascades, streams and rippling pools, throwing into blackest shadow the gulches and hollows and bringing to his mind in spite of the weird beauty of the scene a crushing sense of loneliness—of littleness—as though the vast pile of inorganic desolation which held him was of far greater importance than himself and all the hopes, plans and fears of his lifetime. The child had cried itself to sleep again, and he paced up and down the ice.

"Up there," he said moodily, looking into the sky, where a few stars shone faintly in the flood from the moon—"up there—somewhere—they don't know just where—but somewhere up above, is the Christians' heaven. Up there is their good God, who has placed Myra's child here—their good God—and down below us, somewhere again, are their hell and their bad god, whom they invented themselves. And they give us our choice—heaven or hell. It is not so—not so. The great mystery is not solved. The human heart is not helped in this way. No good, merciful God created this world or its conditions. Whatever may be the nature of the causes at work beyond our mental vision, one fact is indubitably proved—that the qualities of mercy, goodness, justice, play no part in the government scheme. And yet they say the core of all religions on earth is the belief in this. Is it, or is it the cowardly, human fear of the unknown that impels the savage mother to throw her babe to a crocodile, that impels the civilized man to endow churches, that has kept in existence from the beginning a class of soothsayers, medicine men, priests and clergymen, all living on the hopes and fears excited by themselves?"

"And people pray—millions of them—and claim they are answered. Are they? Was ever supplication sent into that sky by troubled humanity and

Not a master or mate sails under the English flag but whose record, even to forecastle fights, is tabulated at Lloyd's for the inspection of prospective employers. Not a ship is cast away on any inhospitable coast of the world during underwriters' business hours but what that mighty singsong cry announces the event at Lloyd's within thirty minutes.

One of the adjoining rooms is known as the chart room. Here can be found in perfect order and sequence, each on its roller, the newest charts of all nations, with a library of nautical literature describing to the last detail the harbors, lights, rocks, shoals and sailing directions of every coast line shown on the charts; the tracks of latest storms, the changes of ocean currents and the whereabouts of derelicts and icebergs. A member at Lloyd's acquires in time a theoretical knowledge of the sea seldom exceeded by the men who navigate it.

Another apartment, the captain's room, is given over to joy and refreshment, and still another, the antithesis of the last, is the intelligence office, where anxious ones inquire for and are told the latest news of this or that overdue ship.

On the day when the assembled throng of underwriters and brokers had been thrown into an uproarious panic the crier's announcement that the great Titan was destroyed and the papers of Europe and America were issuing extras giving the meager details of the arrival at New York of one boat load of her people this office had been crowded with weeping women and worrying men, who would ask and remain to ask again for more news. And when it came—a later cablegram—giving the story of the wreck and the names of the captain, first officer, boatswain, seven sailors and one lady passenger as those of the saved a feeble old gentleman had raised his voice in a quavering scream, high above the sobbing of women, and said:

"My daughter-in-law is safe, but where is my son, where is my son, and my grandchild?" Then he had hurried away, but was back again the next day, and the next. And when, on the tenth day of waiting and watching, he learned of another boat load of sailors and children arriving at Gibraltar, he shook his head slowly, muttering "George, George," and left the room. That night, after telegraphing the consul at Gibraltar of his coming, he crossed the channel.

In the first tumultuous riot of inquiry, when underwriters had climbed over desks and each other to hear again of the wreck of the Titan, one—the noisiest of all, a corpulent, hook-nosed man with flashing black eyes—had broken away from the crowd and made his way to the captain's room, where, after a draft of brandy, he had seated himself heavily with a groan that came from his soul.

"Father Abraham," he muttered; "this will ruin me!"

Others came in, some to drink, some to console, all to talk.

"Hit hard, Meyer?" asked one.

"Ten thousand," he answered, gloomily.

"Serves you right," said another unkindly. "Have more baskets for your eggs. Knevy you'd bring up."

Though Mr. Meyer's eyes sparkled at this, he said nothing, but drank himself stupid and was assisted home by one of his clerks. From this on, neglecting his business, excepting to occasionally visit the bulletin, he spent his time in the captain's room, drinking heavily and lamenting his lack. On the tenth day he came with watery eyes, seated on the bulletin below the news of the arrival at Gibraltar of the second boat load of people, the following:

"Life buoy, 100 fathoms, London, picked up on the wreckage in latitude 45.20, north longitude 54.31 west. Ship abandoned, Captain Brandt."

"Oh, mine good God!" he howled as he rushed toward the captain's room.

"Poor devil! Poor fool!" said one observer to another. "He covered the whole of the Royal Age and the big gest chunk of the Titan. It'll take his wife's diamonds to settle."

Three weeks later Mr. Meyer was aroused from a brooding lethargy by a crowd of shouting underwriters, who rushed into the captain's room, seized him by the shoulders and hurried him out and up to a bulletin.

"Read it, Meyer! Read it! What d'you think of it? With some diffidence or even heard? Who knows? They pray for rain and sunshine, and both come in time. They pray for health and success, and both are but natural in the marching of events. This is not evidence. But they say that they know, by spiritual uplifting, that they are heard and comforted and answered at the moment. Is not this a physiological experiment? Would they not feel equally tranquil if they repeated the multiplication table or boxed the compass?"

"Millions have believed this—that prayers are answered—and these millions have prayed to different gods. Were they all wrong or all right? Would a tentative prayer be listened to? Admitting that the Bibles and Korans and Vedas are misleading and unreliable, may there not be an unseen, unknown being who knows my heart, who is watching me now? If so, this being gave me my reason, which doubts him, and on him is the responsibility. And would this being, if he exists, overlook a defect for which I am not to blame and listen to a prayer from me based on the mere chance that I might be mistaken? Can an unbeliever, in the full strength of his reasoning powers, come to such trouble that he can no longer stand alone, but must cry for help to an imagined power? Can such time come to a sane man—to me?" He looked at the dark line of vacuolization, it was seven miles away; New York was 500, the moon in the east at 20,000 and the stars above any number of billions. He was alone with a sleeping child, a dead bear and a drunken man. He walked softly to the bulletin and looked at the little one, "or a mother's love, raising his head, he whispered, "My son, Myra!"

Sinking to his knees, the aged, feeble man, with his eyes to the heavens and with his feeble voice and the fever born of helplessness prayed to the God that he denied. He begged for the life of the wail in his care, for the safety of the mother, so needful to the little one, and for courage and strength to do his part and bring them together. But beyond the appeal for help in the service of others not one word or expressed thought of his prayer included himself as a beneficiary. So much for pride. As he rose to his feet the dying life of a bark appeared around the corner of ice to the right of the beach, and a moment later the whole roomit fabric came into view, wafted along by the faint westerly air, not as if a sail away.

He sprang to the fire, forgetting the pain, and, throwing on wood, made a blaze. He hailed in a frenzy of excitement, "Bark ahoy! Bark ahoy! Take us off!" And a deep toned answer came across the water.

"Wake up, Myra," he cried as he lifted the child. "Wake up. We're going away."

"We goin' to mamma?" she asked, with no symptoms of crying.

"Yes, we're going to mamma now—that is," he added to himself, "if that clause in the prayer is considered."

Fifteen minutes later, as he was in the approach of a white quartzite, he muttered: "That bark was there half a mile back in this wind, before I thought of praying. Is that prayer answered? Is she safe?"

On the first floor of the London Royal Exchange is a large apartment stuffed with desks, around and between which surges a hurrying, shouting crowd of brokers, clerks and messengers. "Working this apartment are floors and hallways leading to adjacent, remote offices, and scattered through it are bulletin boards, on which are daily written in duplicate the marine casualties of the world. At one end is a raised platform, sacred to the presence of an important functionary. In the technical language of the "city," the apartment is known as the "room" and the functionary as the "caller," whose business it is to call out in a mighty sing song voice the names of members wanted at the door and the bare particulars of bulletin news prior to its being chanted out for reading.

It is the headquarters of Lloyd's—the immense association of underwriters, brokers and shipping men which, beginning with the customers at Edward Lloyd's coffee house in the latter part of the seventeenth century, has, retaining his name for a file, developed into a corporation so well equipped, so splendidly organized and powerful, that kings and ministers of state appeal to it at times for foreign news. A culty he read aloud, while they watched his face:

"John Rowland, sailor of the Titan, with child passenger, name unknown on board Peerless, Cath, at Christiansand, Norway. Both dangerous ill. Rowland swears of ship cut in half before nose of Titan."

"What do you make of it, Meyer?"

"Royal Age, but H?" asked one.

"Yes," vociferated another, "I've figured back. Only one was reported largely. Overdue two months. Max must have come day two miles east of at iceberg."

"Sure thing," said others. "Nothing about it in the captain's statement. Looks queer."

"Well, what of it?" said Mr. Meyer painfully and stupidly. "There is a collision clause in the Titan's policy. I merely pay the money to der steen ship company instead of to der Royal Age beople."

"But why did the captain conceal it, they shouted at him. 'What's his object—assured against collision suits?'"

"Der looks of it, perhaps. Looks pad."

"Nonsense, Meyer! What's the matter with you? Which one of the lost tribes did you spring from? You're like none of your race—drinking your self stupid like a paid Christian. I got a thousand on the Titan, and I'm to pay it I want to know why. You've got the heaviest risk and the brain to fight for it. You're got to do it. Go home, straighten up and attend to this. We'll watch Rowland till you take hold. We're all right."

They put him into a Turkish bath and then home.

The next morning he was at his desk, clear eyed and clear headed, and for a few weeks was a busy, scheming man of business.

REMONSTRANCE IS NOT CONSIDERED

Objection Filed to Proposed Improvement of Ewing Street in Dismissed By the Council.

SEVERAL BIDS ARE OPENED.

Special Session Will Be Held Tuesday Evening When Material Will Be Selected.

The city council met in special council last night for the purpose of opening the bids for the proposed improvement of South Walnut and Ewing streets. A number of bids were considered, the figures of some of them being almost the same.

E. V. Bergen, of Franklin, submitted a bid for the work on Walnut street as follows: Brick, $1.73 per square yard; concrete curb and gutter, 45 cents per lineal foot; marginal curb, 50 cents.

The bid of DeGolyer & Company was: Brick, $1.67 per square yard; combined curb and gutter, 42 cents; marginal stone, 42 cents; 12-inch sewer pipe, per foot, 45 cents; 15-inch sewer pipe, 50 cents. The came company submitted the following bid on concrete: $1.06 per square yard; curb and gutter, marginal stone and sewer pipe same as above.

For the same street Ewing Shields filed the following bid: Brick, $1.65 per square yard; curb and gutter, 41 cents; marginal stone, 41 cents; concrete, per square yard, $1.05.

For Ewing street two bids were submitted, one from DeGolyer & Company and another from Ewing Shields. The first was: Brick, $1.64; curb and gutter, 40 cents; parkway curb, 22 cents per foot; marginal stone, 40 cents; 15-inch sewer pipe 50 cents; 12-inch sewer pipe 45 cents; cement concrete, $1.03 per square yard; other estimates the same as given for brick.

The bid of Ewing Shields was: brick, $1.65 per square yard; curb and gutter, 41 cents; marginal stone, 41 cents; parkway curb, 30 cents; concrete, $1.05 per square yard.

After hearing the bids the council adjourned and reconvened as a board of public works. Chairman Davison read an opinion regarding the remonstrance which was filed by one of the property owners on Ewing street. He stated that of the number of signers on the remonstrance only eight were resident owners while seventeen property owners living on the street had not signed the remonstrance. He said that under a late law the remonstrance must be signed by a majority of the property owners living on the street and as that number was not filed and also since the remonstrance was not presented within ten days after the confirming preliminary resolution was adopted the remonstrance could not be considered and suggested that it be dismissed.

John H. Kamman was present and as a property owner on Ewing street spoke in favor of the remonstrators. He said that the people were not opposed to the improvement being made but objected to it at this time until it was known if concrete was substantial and would serve the purpose as well as brick. He further stated that the city would be under a heavy expense for intersections of streets already improved and believed that from the financial standpoint it would be more advisable to postpone the improvement of Ewing street until next year.

Mr. Kamman said that the councilmen would not desire to have the reputation of raising the taxes higher than any other preceding council, and should try to lower the rate of taxation or keep it the same at least.

After Mr. Kamman concluded his talk the council adopted the report of the chairman of the board to dismiss the remonstrance.

Upon motion of Sherman Day the council will meet again Tuesday evening in special session at which time the property owners on Ewing and South Walnut streets are requested to be present and express their wishes as to which material is desired in the improvement. In the meantime City Engineer E. B. Douglass will estimate the expense of the proposed improvement under the different bids submitted.

Notice.

The Common Council of the city of Seymour, Indiana, will meet on Tuesday, May 14, at 7:30 p. m., to consider the bids that were admitted for the improvement of Ewing and South Walnut streets. The council desires that all persons interested in said improvement be present at the meeting to make expression as to their desire or preference as to the form of pavement to be placed on said streets. m14d John Hauenschild, City Clerk.

FROM THE TROPICS TO HEAL US

In Central America many natives are gathering the seeds of this plant, Cedron Seed, a rare medicine that has valuable curative powers. But few drug stores carry this seed, owing to the high cost of the article. This country is a large consumer of this costly seed because it enters into the famous catarrh remedy, Peruna, sold the world over.

ANNA BELLE'S SCHOOL PICNIC

Dear Friends:—Our school gave a picnic last week and how I wish that each of my friends could have been with us. We had the most fun and of course, drank a great deal of lemonade—not circus lemonade either—the real kind with lemons floating in it. Jack says he feels pink all over since drinking so much pink lemonade. He and the boys went out in the woods with Uncle Ezra and reported a fine time, but I wouldn't call having my face all scratched with brambles having a fine time, would you? Jack and Harold wore their Boy Scout suits, so of course they were a great protection from the briars and bushes. We girls had a sack race and I thought I was going to win but just before we reached the line I fell and Marjorie came out ahead. Of course, I wanted to win, but we can't do what we like at all times, so I'm glad Margie did. Has your school given a picnic yet? The ANNA BELLE SEWING SOCIETY continues to grow and I hope if not all ready an organizer or member that you soon will be one of our happy band of good boys and girls. We've done lots of good the past long winter, and I hope we can make many poor little girls and boys enjoy the summer more than they have ever done before. Listen, please excuse me this week and I'll show you our Society button in my corner next week. Hope you will like it. Now I must close, hoping to hear from you real soon. Address me care this paper. Lovingly,
Anna Belle
